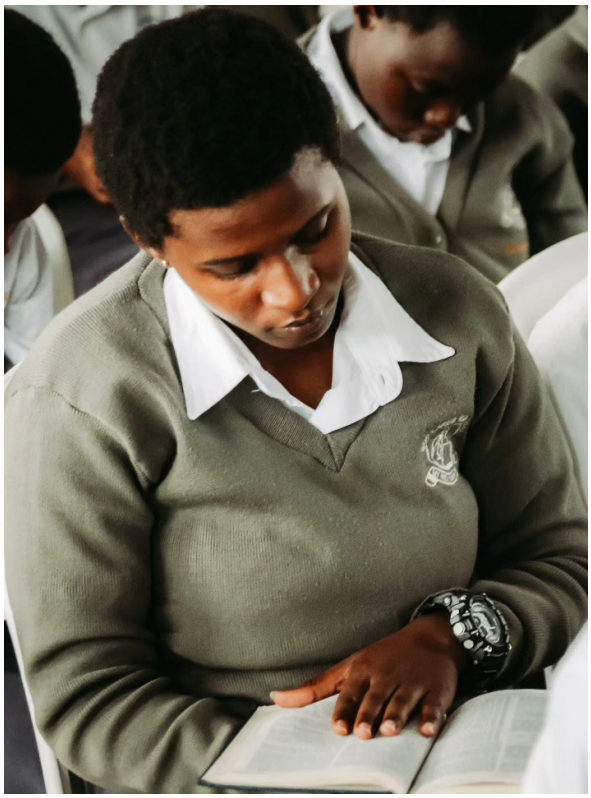
DISCIPLESHIP CONTINUES TO GROW AT GOD CARES HIGH SCHOOL

One of the greatest blessings of visiting God Cares Schools is the opportunity to participate in the students' weekly chapels. The chapels at the high school are massive, accommodating 950 students, and it can be intimidating for some visitors to speak. The students soak up every word as they listen to scriptures shared by those from the mission teams who visit each year. Each team that visits has the opportunity to share at both schools. They are also able to join in on one of the 80 small groups at the high school. The small groups follow the worship and message time where students are able to ask questions.



Discipleship and education are closely intertwined at God Cares School, where teachers instruct students from a Christian worldview across all subject areas. It is a blessing that students are grounded in truth as they are taught to explore their world.

Pastor Glory Dongo, the GCS chaplain, recently implemented a Bible class at the secondary level, where students are taught to delve deeper into scripture. This year, the students are also taught how to lead small groups, having been modeled by teachers and staff last year.

Many students take their walk with the Lord seriously, and it is not unusual for groups of students to choose a day of fasting and prayer instead of playing sports or visiting with friends at lunchtime. They pray for the school, their families, their friends, and their struggles. Often, they also pray for the sponsors and donors who provide them with a school that genuinely loves and cares for them.

Because of Buyamba... Mercy Dreams of Becoming a Surgeon

My name is Mercy Nabulumba; I am in senior three at God Cares High School. I am 16 years old and have four siblings. I live with my aunt because I lost my father when I was still in my mother's womb.

When I was four years old, my mother abandoned me at my grandmother's place. After some time, my aunt decided to take care of me because my life was not good with my grandmother. My aunt later died when I was seven years old, and another aunt then took me on. I was always moved from one relative's place to another.

One day, one of my aunts took me to God Cares School, where I was enrolled in primary five because she could not manage to pay my school fees anymore since she also had her own children. Since then, I have studied at God Cares schools.

I love God Cares School because of the love I felt when I joined it. I love that I accepted Jesus Christ as my personal Lord and Savior. I love my school because it has a high standard of education.

When I grow up, I would like to become a surgeon. I know I will because God is faithful, and Buyamba Outreach Ministries helps Ugandan Children like us to dream big.

Thank you for making stories like Mercy's possible. Because of your faithful support, Mercy has found hope, love, and a future at God Cares School. You are changing lives—one child at a time.
